

ECUADOR TOURS: QUITO SAMPLER

"Set at 9,350 feet on the slopes of Pichincha Volcano, Quito is the world's second-highest capital after La Paz, Bolivia. Towering snow-capped Cayambe, another of three volcanoes that surround the city, frames Quito with mystical allure. The Old City's narrow winding streets are designed for a slow stroll, to soak up the elegance of restored buildings that date back 500 years to the Spanish colonization. Flowering plants overhang decorative balconies, adding a profusion of color to brightly painted buildings rich with historic significance." Agent@Home Magazine
